A FAMOUS OLD HOAX. Keely's Motor, With Which He Baffled Scientists For Years. The story of the Keely motor hoax will live long. Its interest will be enhanced by the preservation in the Franklin institute of the model of to deceive intending investors and enrich its inventor until the fraud was exposed after Keely's death. For twenty-five years Keely astounded eminent scientists of Europe and America with the machine that he claimed had solved the secret of perpetual motion. The inventor of this machine would start his device going. apparently, by playing a tune on a mouth organ. He convinced many clever men that he told the truth, and stock in the new concern sold freely. To the day of his death Keely de clared that his discovery was a genuine one, and it was only when the house in which the machine was placed was thoroughly overhauled that the colossal fraud was discovered. Keely had wired the walls of the building. He ran his machine by high pressure hydraulic power. When the wires attached to the machine were the subject of investigation Keely would file them to show that they were solid and could not be used for any purpose other than that for which they were attached. Pieces of wire thus filed are to be seen at the Franklin institute. The broken pieces show that the wires were hollow and that the inventor of the wonderful motor carefully stopped his filling short of perforating the center, which would have expesed the fraud.-Scientific American.

FORMATION OF COAL. Conditions on Our Planet While the Process Developed. What may be said to be the stran gest period through which our earth has passed is the one that was responsible for the formation of coal. The planet is described as having been at that time flat and smooth as to surface and peculiar as to vegetation. The continents were just beginning to rise above the ocean and the land had not yet become dry. Mountain ranges had not arisen from the swamps, and the atmosphere was thick with fog. In this state of affairs there sprouted and flourished the plants which were later to furnish the world with its coal sup-

These plants grew as big as our largest trees, taking deep root in the morass and flourishing like the lush grasses in moist meadow land and developed into the strange shapes now found in tropic vegetation. The forest looked, the scientists assure us, like dense growths of weeds, rushes and enormous ferns. Some of them grew in the shape of cacti, having spines all over them. This kind of vegetation was very rich in carbon, which it derived from the warm, moist atmosphere. Then the millions of years rolled by, the forests of giant weeds were buried by deposits of earthy material and the chemical change took place which slowly changed them into coal. This process ceased with the carboniferous age, so that when the present supply of coal is dug out of the ground there will be no more.-Exchange.

Sealed Orders.

The custom of having warships sali under sealed orders arose from the desire of maritime powers to prevent the plans from becoming known to the en my. In the American navy such oriers come from the president and are delivered to a commander of a ship or squadron by a confidential messenger who knows nothing of their contents. Sometimes they are in cipher. but they are a'ways sealed with the official seal of the navy department. and the package cannot be opened until the time marked on it, which is usually several bours after the bour of leaving port. By this precaution the newspapers are prevented from disclosing prematurely the movements which may be of the greatest importance, and the sples of the enemy are rendered useless so far us their ubility to discover the secret of such

THACKERAY'S KIND HEART.

The Author Was Called a Cynic, but movements is concerned.

He Loved Children. Thackerny's words were satirical, and he himself was called a cynic, but the author of "Love Affairs of Some Famous Men" shows what sort of heart beat in the satirist's breast by quoting from the letter of one to whom the following incident happened: "In the week following his deaththere appeared some genial memorial lines in the pages of Punch. Walking down the then unsavory thoroughfare known as Bedfordbury, my eye caught the open page of the popular periodical, and I stayed to read the graceful tribute to the dead moralist. Turning away at length, a poorly dressed man in working garb said to me: "'I knew that man, sir." "'You knew Thackeray? I asked. "'Yes, sir. I keep that little baker's shop yonder,' pointing to the opposite side of the street, 'and many's the time Thackeray would come and buy a pound or two of cake of me. I cut it into silces for him, and then, distributthe remarkable motor that Keely built ing it among the crowd of hungry children, he would walk away and hide in that court over there, that he might have the pleasure of seeing their en-

Hum of the Wires, Anything that is stretched is apt to be thrown into vibration by the force of the air blowing against it. If it vibrates so fast as to produce the air waves that our ears can hear then that is what we call sound. This is what happens to the telegraph wires when they ham, and if we put our hand on the telegraph pole we shall feel that the wires vibrate strongly enough to set the whole pole trembling too, But when the air is quite still the telegraph wires do not hum.

Very Attentive. "I can't get old Snip the tallor to pay any attention to me," remarked Dubbleigh. "That's strange," said Slathers. "He's most assiduous in his attention to me, Sends me three or four tills every month."-Harper's Weekly.

Easily Explained. Elder-If you believe that everything that takes place is foreordained why did you wallop the man you caught stenling your wood? Deacon-Because I couldn't belo it. I felt that it was foreordained that I should wallop him.
